HONGKONG, SATURDAY, APRIL 15, 1899.

In his new role as public catechiser of the given notice of two series of questions for the Legislative Council meeting on Tuesday next. The first series deals with the unprovoked and unauthorised attack upon the Manila Observatory by Dr Doberck, the Director of the Hongkong Observatory; the second series has reference to the proposed school for European children at Kowoon. The public will be pleased to learn from the extract published elsewhere that the Hongkong Government has already taken measures to remedy the blunder made by Dr Doberek ; but it is to be hoped we have not yet heard the last of the incident. It was altogether irregular for the head of a Government Department to go out of his way to communicate with a foreign Hove comment. For we must assume that ... 9.46 Dr Doborok's communication to the Agricultural and Weather Bureau of the United States was never submitted to His Excellency the Governor before it was despatched. It is therefore the plain duty of the Government to mark its official diesatisfaction of Dr Doborck's irregularity, and to ensure that similar mistakes shall not occur again, As a matter of fact, with past experience to guide it, the Government ought to take a greater interest 11% pm. in the working of the Hongkong Obser vatory. The Observatory costs the Colony from $19,000 to $15,000 per annum, and while we do not agree with it, there is prevalent a feeling in the Colony that the taxpayers do not get the worth of their money. Worked harmoniously, the Observatory, which, in recent years, has proved its value to the Colony and especially to the shipping intercets (in which the fritantance - taket Colony is bound up), might become of greater value still by the dissemination of additional astronomical and meteorological information to the community. We hope to see the Colonial Secretary's letter to the Rev. Father Algus, Director of the Manila educational facilities for European children at Kowloon come appropriately from Mr Belilios, himself the leading benefactor of the Colony in educational matters. It would probably have been more fitting if the Senior Unofficial Member had interested himself in this subject years ago, but the public baye geased to expect any assistance from Mr Chater in matters of public importance, and so it is left to his unofficial colleague to raise the Kowloon school question. Of the necessity for a school at Kowloon commensurate with the importance of the place everybody is street. Sir William Robinson admitted it, and successfully staved off public sotion by his promises. The Colonial Segretary, the Hon, J. H. Stewart Look hart, has been only half-hearted in his support of the scheme; but the late Inspector of Schools, Dr Ruel and the pre-Mr A. W. When the Government provides education for Chinese children at the dapense of the public treasury is has no right to dony similar advantages to European children. We are surely not to be told in a British Colony that to be a Epropean is a disqualification for the rights and privileges scoopded to the Chinese. The establishment of a European school at Kowloon has been delayed too long already, and if the Government is not prepared to give a satisfactory reply to Mr Belilius questions on Tuesday we hope the Hon. Brember, with the undivided support of his Unofficial colleagues, will propose a resolution calling upon the Government to take immediate action to fulfil its pledges and to satisfy the demands of the Kowloon fesidents. Ox 9th April, the German barque Atlantic, a vessel of 780 tone, belonging to Hamburg, was abandoned in lat. 21.47 and long 113.14, about sixty miles from the Colony. This intelligence was brought to Hengkong yesterday morning by the master, Captain Schneider, who with his wife and daughter, the mate and Chinese crew of the barque, arrived in two Chinese junios. The Atlantic left Thayang, Palawan, with a load of timber, and experiencing rough weather she sprang a leak, which necessitated the pumps being kept constantly going. When she had been 65 days at sea provisions ran short, and a call was made at Labuan. Cp leaving this place further rough weather was experienced, and at last the crew, on a couple of junks coming in sight, insisted on going on board them and abandoning the vessel. There was 8 ft. 3 ins. of water in the ship when she was deserted.

The questions regarding the lack of

Robinson Piano Co. It is curious to find from Mr. Gibson Bowles' speech in the House of Commons that railway construction in the western parts of China is still cold-shouldered on account of the enormous engineering difficulties assumed to exist. Of course such statements are a more reverberation of Lord Salisbury's astonishing statement to the deputation from the Associated hembers of Commorce which waited on him last June. As a matter of fact, English and French engineers are in the field selecting the best paths for railways leading from Burms on and from Tongking on other, to Yuman Fu, and thence to a navigable point on the Yang-teze-kiang. Lord Salisbury's views were evidently based on his remembrance of the report given of the engineering difficulties of the Bhamo route by the late Mr Colborne Baber. That, however, is not the route which would be taken by the railway. Lord Salisbury had apparently forgotten that three years previous to his receiving the deputation an officer of the Government of India's Intelligence Department had tracked out a route leading from Kunlon, the terminus of the Rangoon-Kunlon Radway, to Tali Fu, by which only one pass would have to be crossed, and that involving 'n ascent of only 2,400 feet in eighteen miles, and a descent of 1.768 feet in twelve miles. In fact, the difficulties are found to he so comparatively slight that Mr Bagiey has estimated that the Kunlon-Yincho section, the most difficult section of the projected line to Tali Fu, would cost only £6,250 per mile—a rate one-third less than the estimated cost of the recently sanctioned The distance by rail from Kunlon to Tali have conceded us the right Yunnan Fu towards the Yang-tsze, whether | ficates unless produced within that Period it took the roundabout way via Tali Fu, or | will thereafter be held by the Company as the more direct and probably far easier | Null and Void. route via Chietong.
